

How To Clean a Canned Food Top

We know we need to wash our hands before handling food. We know we should rinse fresh fruits and vegetables with edible skins before preparing or eating them. But what about can tops - whether we're taking the whole top off, like with this tuna can...

or just popping a hole in it, like with this can of condensed milk?

No matter how carefully we open a can, the top of the can always comes in contact with at least some of the contents inside the can.

All you need to do to clean a can top is to squirt a little dish soap on the top of that can. Then...

...wipe the can top clean with a wet dish sponge - or even your clean hands,...

...rinse with water, and you're done. Easy!
